

Hello Psychology concentrators,

We are excited to let you know that the Harvard Summer School is launching a new program in Trento, Italy that will feature courses in Cognitive Science. All the courses offered will could for Psychology concentration credit, and some can be used as MBB junior seminars. All classes are taught in English by Harvard professors. One really cool classes students can choose from focuses on the psycholology/neuroscience of art, and is co-taught by Margaret Livingstone from HMS.
